

Dinner and theatre share the table in a restaurant in Seville that uses art against crisis

LOCATION: Seville

DURATION: 1:37

SUMMARY: A restaurant in Seville has added a cultural touch to their dishes. While they are having dinner, its clients can enjoy a theatre play that is performed among the tables. This initiative that will be repeated every Wednesday in October, but later they will use the restaurant as a space for photography exhibitions or book presentations. After 30 years of history, 'El Abuelo' restaurant has decided to be a stage for local culture to offer an added value to clients.

VTR:

Ambience. In five minutes the show will start.

This restaurant in Seville has decided to include in his menu something unusual. To attract clients they have joined culinary and scenic arts to give their dishes a cultural touch.

INMACULADA PRAT
Manager of 'El Abuelo'

"You have to reinvent in these times, and I think that it is a good idea and original."

JULIO FRAGA
Actor

"You kill two birds with one stone. You get a good show and a good dinner, and a different mood when you leave."

ALMUDENA APARICIO
Client

"You need new things to attract clients."

Reinvent to fight the bad economic situation that both the cultural and the restoration sector are suffering.

ANTONIO GALÁN
Client

"It is a way to both revitalize. In one hand the situation of restaurants is not very good with crisis, and in the other it is useful for theatre to find new stages."

INMACULADA PRAT
Manager of 'El Abuelo'

"We must join culture and somehow support each other."

With more than thirty years of history, 'El Abuelo' Restaurant has become a stage for local culture. In addition to this play that will be performed every Wednesday in October...

INMACULADA PRAT
Manager of 'El Abuelo'

"We also have a project for a photography exhibition, a presentation of an erotic tales book, caricatures... because a lot of politicians come to this type of business, to mock a little."

A cultural alliance to feed more than our stomach.
