

Tiny City Explorers, the app that will make young children enjoy cultural tourism too

LOCATION: Seville

LENGTH: 1'36"

SUMMARY: Paqui and Manuel are two Sevillian teachers with great passion for their work and for cultural tourism. They always travelled a lot and when their children were born they asked themselves the big question: "And how do we do it now?" They decided to do some trips that would also be appealing to little Julia and Mario, through activities and educational games. This way, they were all able to enjoy the experience together. Now, as a result of this experience, they have launched Tiny City Explorers, an app for mobile devices with fun and educational content that promotes cultural tourism for families by making it more appealing for children.

"And of course, now with the arrival of the children... How do we do it?"

And what have they done? They've developed an app containing activities that keep children entertained whilst visiting the sights with their parents, and, at the same time, helps them to learn. Julia and Mario, their children, are an important part of the project.

"Each city has ten tourist attractions. The ten most visited spots in each city. And activities that are always based on these ten places."

"Word searches, puzzles, memory games that don't require an ability to read, drawings..."

And, of course, information adapted for children about the history of these sights. Seville, Granada, Cordoba, Barcelona, Rome... The list of cities on the app, which is available on iOS and Android, is growing...

"You can do cultural trips and enjoy them with your children, in a way that is fun and appealing for them."

To this end, this curious family from Seville has invested a year of work into the project, which they are very, very excited about.
