

Kompartir: solidarity and entrepreneurship join in a web site to exchange goods and services

LOCATION: Torrox (Málaga)

DURATION: 1'29"

SUMMARY: A dentist who has decided to dedicate some of his work to help people with fewer resources for free is an example of what we can find in 'Kompartir.es', a new web site with the aim of fighting the economic crisis. It has been created by a group of youngsters in Málaga who wanted to promote the exchange of goods and services.

VTR:

This dentist found out about the site 'Kompartir' and decided to offer his services for free to those people who needed them. It is one of the options offered by this site born in Málaga with the aim of fighting the economic crisis through the exchange of goods and services. There we can also find a social alert section for people who are in an emergency situation.

"That is one of the reasons, helping people a little, giving less value to money as we say, promoting barter to help the most deprived people."

Salvador is one of the people who have been able to receive the dental treatment offered in the site. He is unemployed, like his wife, and has two children.

AMBIENCE

"Come on in Salvador, the doctor is waiting for you! Over here."

Bakri Eskeif
Dentists

"It could be helpful; if every professional makes a small contribution we could solve a lot of problems together."

Salvador Cordón
User of the site

"That's how it is meant to be today, because there are people going through a bad time and we must help each other."

This is an example of how this site works. Its creators have been surprised because although the most usual is exchanging professional services, they have raised money for people who needed it.

"Trying to give people a little relief by the end of the month, bringing people a little happiness."

Those who offer, those who ask and those who exchange have a place in this site, active all over Spain for free. Despite it has been working for just two months, there are days that they have reached 30.000 visits.
