

Gabba Hey: future rock stars learn everything from consolidated artists

LOCATION: Granada

DURATION: 1'38"

SUMMARY: José Ignacio Lapido, Víctor Sánchez or Raúl Bernal are famous artists of Spanish rock. Now they have decided to combine music with teaching, showing all they know in a school of rock in Granada. Gabba Hey is opened to all public.

VTR:

José Ignacio Lapido, former member of 091; Víctor Sánchez, a popular guitar player who was part of several bands such as Delayo and released several solo albums; Raúl Bernal, keyboardist and guitar player with more than 20 records released as member of bands such as Lapido or Jean Paul and who has collaborated with Niños Mutantes or Elastic Band... they all have joined to share their knowledge starting Gabba Hey, a school of rock located in Granada.

Raúl Bernal
Co-director Gabba Hey School

"Trying that the music that we love and the music to which we have dedicated our lives has the place it deserves."

Víctor Sánchez
Co-director Gabba Hey School

"It is fundamental that if we are teaching rock, teachers know it, isn't it? Also, they must be active and know how does rock work."

The first school year has already started. Students will learn how to play all the instruments that compose a rock band, apart from musical language, harmony, composing and even music initiation for children of all ages.

AMBIENCE

"For example I have this one, which is easier."

And I can take it to 'mi'."

Víctor Sánchez
Co-director Gabba Hey School

"It is very interesting for me, it is very exciting teaching from kids to people like me, or even older than me. Every person is different and an individual, and each one approaches an instrument in a different way."

There are individual and group classes, depending on the subject. With the drums, for example, it is better doing it one by one.

Pablo García Lastra
Drums teacher

"It is difficult to understand it as an instrument similar to an harmonic or a melodic instrument."

Who knows if future rock stars will come out from this school.
