

My Closet: an app that suggests what clothes you should wear based on your style and the weather

LOCATION: Cádiz

DURATION: 1'25"

SUMMARY: Julio García, a computer scientist from Cádiz has created the app 'Mi Armario'(My Closet), a tool aimed at solving the daily problem of... "What should I wear today?" The app makes suggestions to the user about what is available in terms of their taste, desired combinations and things that go together. These suggestions take the weather forecast into account for the day. 'Mi Armario' already has thousands of downloads in Spain, South America, and the USA.

In the mornings, many people struggle to decide what to wear. This computer scientist from Cádiz has created an app that tries to avoid this eternal time-wasting dilemma. It's called 'My Closet'.

JULIO GARCÍA
Creator of My Closet App

"The My Closet app helps you to find the best option out of your own clothes."

To start, the user photographs their clothes and comes up with combinations according to their own style and taste. The app memorises this information so that when the time comes, taking into account the weather forecast and what activity they are going to do, work or leisure, it suggests the most appropriate outfit which they haven't worn recently.

LAURA TRUJILLO
User

"It's actually very useful because it helps you to organise your wardrobe without have to repeat outfits, with accessories, bags, shoes and more, without needing to check the weather."

Available on Android, the English version of this free app means that in a few weeks it has been downloaded thousands of times in Spain, the USA and South America.

TOTAL JULIO GARCÍA
Creator of My Closet App

"We have over 5000 downloads. We are doing well in Brazil. And we have also been downloaded in countries like Russia, Vietnam, Malaysia..."

You just have to make plans, take a look at the mobile app, add the finishing touches... And you are ready to flaunt your best outfit in the street.
