"So they have the time and flexibility they need bringing their children to work. Helping parents to manage time. Basically, it's what families demand when we talk about labor conciliation and flexibility."

To make this conciliation possible, children have their own space, the CoBaby.

Encarni Castaño
CoBaby manager

"To combine their job with parenthood. Because they are here, very close to them, and they can come in at any time they need."

This way, parents can fulfil their professional responsibilities and at the same time, be around their kids, see how they are doing, play with them or breastfeed them.

María José Vallecillos
Coworker

"Focusing in my everyday work, but without separating myself from my daughter."

Manuel Contreras
Coworker

"We can be with our child, we don't want to take her to the nursery yet, she's too young."

Noemí Cruz
Coworker

"It was very difficult to combine work with the care that she needs. And here she is near us, we can see her, she continues to be breastfed."

Marina Manrique

"You can come in whenever your child needs you, you can breastfeed him, feed him."

In the CoBaby space lies the essence of this coworking. Aimed at children between 0 and 3 years old, it allows families to have quality time and increase their productivity, and at the same time to be with their children.
