

Unsolved crimes to bring entertainment to dinners with friends

LOCATION: Seville

DURATION: 1'38"

SUMMARY: Entrepreneurs from Seville organise live roll games in their client's homes consisting in unsolved murders that bring entertainment to dinners with friends. The idea was inspired by the popular British board game Cluedo. One of the members of Cluedo Seville acts as both the master of ceremonies and butler, and gives clues to the guests throughout the dinner. Anyone in the table can be the murderer, the rest must find out who he or she is. The cases are set in different times, from the Roman Empire to Chicago in the 30's.

VTR:

Nine guests from the past in an original dinner...

BACKGROUND [Doorbell] –“That's the missing guest!”

And the tenth diner has just arrived.

BACKGROUND -“By Jupiter, Cleopatra! Long time no see!

-“I was invited to the Senator's dinner.”

The one and only Queen of Egypt. They are all sitting on the table and one of them has committed a murder. Tonight, they will discover who the criminal is.

Cluedo Seville Manager

“It is a live roll game. It is a real-life Cluedo, except for the fact that they are all sitting around a table.”

BACKGROUND -“No one is allowed to lie, except for the murderer and only during the fourth piece.”

One of the members of Cluedo Seville is both the master of ceremonies and the butler. Inspired by the popular British game, this company organises thematic dinners with a murder in their client's homes. A common practise in the States and the United Kingdom. He leads the action and gives clues...

“Everyone on the table has good reasons to murder the absent person, the one who didn't attend the dinner.”

Did Cleopatra do it? Maybe Quinto, the Roman admiral; or the beautiful Popea. They will find it out with the help of the clues.

“The key isn't who did it but who couldn't do it. It is going to be easier for you to discover who did it if first you discard the people who couldn't have done it.”

PILAR MIRA
Cluedo Seville Manager

“Other in the golden Hollywood of the 20's, another in Prohibition, in Chicago, with gangsters and flappers...”

Other stories and cases at various times organized by Cluedo Seville. Who was the murderer in this case? Maybe, soon you will discover it in your own home.
